Flood Risk & Flood Insurance Basics

Most homeowners insurance doesn't cover flooding. Only a flood insurance policy will cover flood damage. Your insurance agent can tell you more about the benefits of flood insurance. In the meantime, here are a few things you should know:

- The National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP), administered by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), enables residents in participating communities to purchase federally backed flood insurance. Currently, more than 21,000 communities participate in the NFIP nationwide.
- In most cases, you can purchase flood insurance coverage from the insurance agent who sells your homeowners policy.
- More than 20 percent of flood insurance claims come from outside high-flood risk areas — consider purchasing flood insurance even if you are not required to do so by your lender.
- If your home is in a low- to moderate-flood risk area, you could be eligible for a low-cost Preferred Risk Policy.

Flood Insurance Requirements

- If your new home is located in a Special Flood Hazard Area, (land at high risk of a major flood) and you obtain a mortgage from a federally regulated or insured lender, you are required to purchase flood insurance.
- If your home is located in a high-flood risk area, your lender must notify you of your requirement to purchase flood insurance within a reasonable time prior to the loan closing. The loan cannot be closed without a flood insurance policy in place.
- The usual 30-day waiting period when purchasing flood insurance is waived if you are buying a home and you are required to purchase coverage by your lender.
